INDIA-RUSSIA PARTNERSHIP

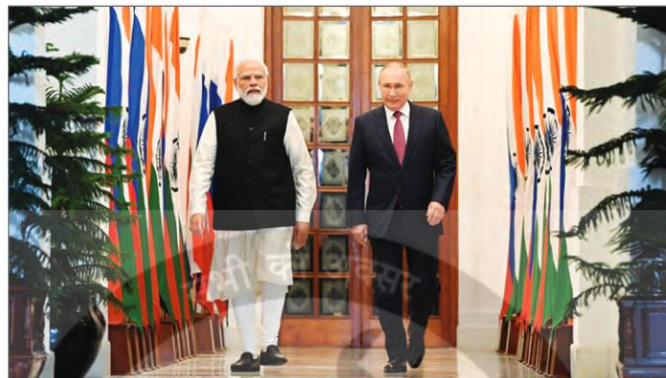

IN THE FAST-CHANGING GLOBAL ORDER

Rishikesh Kumar

Russian President Vladimir Putin was on a brief working visit to New Delhi on 6 December to take part in the 21st India-Russia Annual Summit with Prime Minister Narendra Modi. This was President Putin's only second visit out of Russia since March 2020. The only other visit he had undertaken during the time period was a brief visit to Geneva for the Russia-US Summit with President Joe Biden.

"The fact that President Putin has decided to visit India for our annual summit exceptionally is an indication of the importance he attaches to the bilateral relationship," Harsh Vardhan Shringla, India's Foreign Secretary underlined, mentioning President Putin had conferred Russia's highest civilian award, "the Order of St Andrew the Apostle," on Prime Minister Modi in 2019. Last year, the annual Summit was not held because of the COVID pandemic.

The visit concluded in a joint statement titled 'India-Russia Partnership for Peace, Progress, and Prosperity.' Putin called India a "great power, a friendly nation, and a time-tested friend." Indian PM Modi stated that the India-Russia friendship had remained a constant amid all the geopolitical changes at the global level in the past decades.

In the 99-point joint statement issued after the Summit, India and Russia agreed to intensify consultations on complementarities between integration and development initiatives in greater

Eurasian space and in the regions of Indian and Pacific Oceans. The joint statement, capturing the state and future potential of bilateral ties, mentioned signing a record number of 28 agreements or Memorandums of Understanding (MoUs). These agreements were both government to government and business to business, covering various sectors including trade, energy, culture, intellectual property, accountability, cyber-attacks in the banking sector, workforce, geological exploration survey, education, etc.

The two countries renewed the military-technical cooperation deal for 2021-31. Also, they signed an agreement for the joint production of 601,427 AK-203 assault rifles at a manufacturing facility in Uttar Pradesh's Amethi during the 20th meeting of the India-Russia Inter-Governmental Commission on Military and Military-Technical Cooperation (IRIGC-M&MTC). "Given a large number of platform holdings of Russian equipment with Indian armed forces, the extension of the 10-year agreement was inevitable. This is a major signal to Washington that despite CAATSA (Countering America's Adversaries Through Sanctions Act) sword in the background, India is not likely to reel back imports of Russian defence equipment in the near to mid-term", Brigadier Rahul Bhonsle (Retired), a Delhi-based security analyst, assessed. CAATSA is a U.S. law passed in 2017 to prevent countries

The real challenge of the Civil Services (Main) examination lies in mastering the huge General Studies (GS) syllabus comprising four papers carrying 250 marks each. Together, the weight of GS in the exam is higher than the optional paper and the essay paper. Needless to say, then, that it is hard to imagine success in the civil services exam without a good command over all GS papers. This is not to downplay the role of the optional and the essay papers but to stress the imperative of giving sufficient time to prepare for the entire GS syllabus. All four GS papers are multidisciplinary. In other words, each paper is a mix of different disciplines. For example, GS Paper-I is composed of history, art, culture, and society. GS Paper-II comprises Indian polity, governance and administrative issues, schemes, programs, and government policies in social sectors like health, education, the welfare of weaker sections, and their impact. It also includes international relations. GS Paper-III combines four disciplines: economy, disaster management science and technology, and internal security. Finally, GS Paper-IV deals with ethics, social psychology, philosophical aspects of administration, and case studies. Questions are set on all syllabus areas, necessitating the study of each section of the prescribed syllabus. At the same time, all disciplines within a single GS paper do not carry equal weight in terms of the number of questions. To cite an example, in GS Paper-II, polity and governance carry more weight than international relations. Therefore, one has to give emphasis to topics according to their proportionate weight.

DECODING GENERAL STUDIES-II & GENERAL STUDIES-III

GS PAPER-II

Of all the four GS papers, Paper-II is the most interesting, very dynamic, and contemporary. Comprising sections on polity, governance, and international relations, it arouses the keen interest of aspirants because the topics relate to contemporary issues reported in newspapers and journals almost every day. It does not, however, mean that there are no static portions in GS-II. For example, there shall always be questions from the structural aspects of the Constitution, eg, parliament, executive, federalism, etc. However, even these static aspects will be linked with contemporary issues. The same can be said about international relations. Static aspects like foundations of Indian foreign policy, the role of the United Nations and its agencies are likely areas from where questions will be asked. However, here too, the focus will be on the contemporary challenges in our foreign policy or working of the UN. In other words, what is needed is to develop a fundamental knowledge of the static portions and then analyze the dynamic aspects of a particular topic in their backdrop.

POLITY

Thorough knowledge of the Constitution is essential to answer polity questions. Unless you understand the basic scheme of the Constitution and the functions of the executive, legislature, and judiciary, you cannot provide good inputs to the answer. The major areas to be covered in polity are: Fundamental Rights, Directive Principles, Parliament, Judiciary, Federalism and its problems, amendments to the Constitution, the role of Panchayati Raj Institutions, review of the working of the Constitution.

One will have to study the major themes on these topics and understand the relevant issues involved. For example, if one takes up Parliament, issues like electoral reforms, criminalisation of politics, issue of electoral finance, disruption of parliament sessions, the role of second chamber, the role of parliamentary committees, suitability of parliamentary democracy, problems of Panchayati Raj etc will need to be prepared. In this way, you need to create a vertical of the main topic (like Parliament) and then go for horizontal expansion of topics under that vertical.

As regards source materials on polity, it is always advisable to consult original sources in place of compiled materials. It is impossible to develop a comprehensive understanding of polity unless you read and understand it from good sources. The inconvenient truth about commercial books and materials flooding the market is that they do not cover the syllabus adequately.

Books on Polity

1. PM Bakshi: Indian Constitution
2. D Basu: Constitution of India
3. Granville Austin: The Indian Constitution
4. Yogendra Yadav: Making Sense of Indian Democracy
5. Subhash Kashyap: The State of Democracy, Governance, and Parliament

These books will go a long way in acquiring qualitative knowledge on polity. Then, one has to keep up with current aspects of polity, like for example, judicial reforms, parliamentary reforms etc. from good newspapers and journals.

GOVERNANCE

In this context, the term governance implies the functioning of important governing institutions, their inadequacies, ineffectiveness and inefficiencies, and suggested reforms in these institutions. To cite an example, let us take up the criminal justice system. This would require knowledge about police reforms, reforms in our criminal justice system, bail procedures, reforms of judiciary, etc. One has to follow the pattern suggested by this example and make a list of topics under governance.

Study material on governance: There is no single book available on governance that deals with the entire range of topics on the subject. Therefore, the best option is to read newspapers and journals that carry good articles on government initiatives, laws, reform measures, etc. A good reference source can be the various reports of the Administrative Reforms Commission.

INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS

This is a truly dynamic and interesting aspect of GS-II syllabus as it deals with current happenings on the global stage. The areas to be covered include:

- Indian foreign policy: its basic foundations, non-alignment, multi-alignment, strategic autonomy, and multilateralism.
- India and its neighbors: bilateral relations and policies on the neighborhood. Also, India's extended neighborhood i.e. West Asia, South East Asia, and Central Asia
- India and big powers: China, USA, Russia
- India's engagement with the WTO, EU, Africa, Latin America.
- India and the UN
- Role of international institutions like the UN and its agencies, WTO, WHO, etc. Also, required reforms in these institutions.
- India's nuclear policy, defence policy, energy policy, trade policy, exports policy, diaspora policy, climate change policy, policy on terrorism, cyber security, etc.

Books:

1. Rajiv Sikri: Strategies and Challenges
 2. Muchkund Dubey: Indian Foreign Policy
 3. Shyam Saran: How India Sees the World
 4. Shashi Tharoor: The New World Disorder
 5. Shiv Sankar Menon: India and Asian Geopolitics
- Newspapers will be beneficial to cover international relations that keep on evolving daily.

GS PAPER III

This paper comprises economics, disaster management, internal security and science, and technology.

ECONOMICS

The syllabus mainly covers the challenges of the Indian economy on all fronts. Agriculture, industry, foreign trade, manufacturing are the major topics. One has to make a list of issues to be covered and guess questions that can be asked. Without a basic knowledge of the Indian economy, it will be difficult to understand contemporary issues of the economy.

DISASTER MANAGEMENT

This part of the syllabus is about understanding various types of man-made and natural disasters like forest fires, flooding of cities and coastal flooding, cyclones, and storms, earthquakes, landslides, cloud bursts, heat waves, pandemics, etc. It should be clear that most of these disasters are the result of global warming and climate change. So, they must be studied in this context. India, being prone to all types of disasters, one must look at the national disaster framework, institutional arrangements like the National Disaster Management Authority (NDMA), legal framework like disaster management act, which provides an institutionalized response to tackle various types of disasters. Causes of such disasters, mitigation measures, reducing effects of disasters on the economy and human life, rehabilitation, early warning and evacuation from disaster-prone areas are some crucial topics to engage with.

2. Pollution: air, water, river, soil, and ocean pollution
3. Extinction of species and its implications on biodiversity
4. Man-animal conflict

1971 Indo-Pak War: A Saga of Heroism

Swarnim Vijay Varsh Special

The year 2021 marks the 50th anniversary of victory of the Indian Armed Forces in the 1971 Indo-Pak War and the year is being observed as 'Swarnim Vijay Varsh' in honour of the Indian soldiers who laid down their lives in the line of duty. In the 1971 war, India achieved a decisive victory with Pakistani forces in Bangladesh surrendering to the forces of India and Bangladesh on December 16, 1971 after a 14-day battle. The day is commemorated as Vijay Diwas (Victory Day) both in India and Bangladesh. India played the role of a catalyst in the Liberation War of Bangladesh.

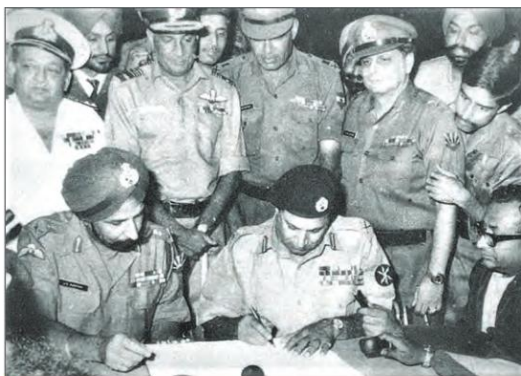

This War was replete with tales of extraordinary courage displayed by the Indian armed forces – Army, Air Force and Navy—both on the eastern and western fronts. Nearly 600 officers and men of the armed forces were decorated with gallantry medals of which four were awarded the Param Vir Chakra (PVC), 76 Maha Vir Chakra (MVC) and 513 Vir Chakra (VrC). We bring to you the stories of bravery of the four such heroes who were awarded the PVC.

Lance Naik Albert Ekka

Lance Naik Albert Ekka hailed from a village in Ranchi, Jharkhand. He was enrolled in 14 Guards in 1962. Nine years into his service, the 1971 war broke out. The Indian armed forces were fighting on the eastern and western fronts as well. During the War, 14 Guards was tasked to capture a Pakistani position at Gangasagar, about six kilometre west of Agartala, in the Eastern Sector. It was a well-fortified position held in good strength by the enemy. The reduction of this position was considered necessary as it was the key to the capture of Akhaura, on the way to Dhaka.

The 14 Guards launched an attack on enemy positions at 0400 Hours on December 3. Lance Naik Albert Ekka accompanied the left forward company of the Battalion in the attack. The assaulting Indian troops were subjected to intense shelling and heavy small arms fire by the enemy. Lance Naik Ekka observed that an enemy light machine gun was belching deadly fire from a bunker, causing heavy casualties to his Company. Unmindful of his personal safety, he charged the bunker, bayoneted two occupants and silenced the light machine gun. Though seriously injured in this encounter, he continued to fight alongside his comrades with courage, securing bunker after bunker. After battling through a distance of one and a half kilo-metres, when Ekka and his comrades reached the northern end of the objective, an enemy medium machine gun opened up from the second storey of a well-fortified building. It inflicted heavy casualties on Indians and held up their progress. Once again Lance Naik Ekka rose to the occasion. Unmindful of his personal safety, he crawled to the building and hurled a grenade into the bunker killing one enemy soldier and injuring the other. The medium machine gun could not, however, be silenced. Lance Naik Ekka then scaled the sidewall to enter the bunker. He bayoneted the enemy holding the bunker and silenced the deadly weapon. This saved his Company from further casualties and ensured success. Ekka died of the injuries suffered during this battle. The Battle of Gangasagar was crucial in paving the way for the movement of the Indian troops towards their ultimate target in Bangladesh. This young soldier of 29 years was posthumously awarded the PVC for his exceptional valour. This was the one and only PVC awarded for action on the eastern front.

Flying Officer Nirmal Jit Singh Sekhon

Flying Officer Nirmal Jit Singh Sekhon was born in 1943, in village Rurka Isewal, Ludhiana, Punjab. He was commissioned in the Indian Air Force in 1967. Flying Officer Sekhon was a pilot in a Gnat detachment based at Srinagar for the air defence of the Valley. India was bound by an international agreement not to base its air defence aircraft at Srinagar. Therefore, the pilots who were hurriedly brought to Srinagar at the outbreak of hostilities with Pakistan, were neither familiar with the terrain nor acclimatised to the winter rigours of Kashmir. Nevertheless, during the War, Flying Officer Sekhon and his colleagues fought Pakistani air raids with valour and determination.

On December 14, 1971, Srinagar airfield was attacked by a wave of six Pakistani Sabre jets. Sekhon was on readiness duty at that time. Soon the enemy aircraft started hovering over the airfield. The strafing of various targets on the ground followed. Flying Officer Nirmal Jit Singh Sekhon was on readiness duty at that moment. The continuous surge of air attacks by the Pakistani jets provided him the opportunity to display his mettle. Putting his life at grave risk, he took off in his Gnat aircraft to engage the two attacking Sabres. In the air battle that ensued he secured a direct hit on one Sabre and set another ablaze. At this juncture four more Pakistani Sabres came on the scene and surrounded his aircraft. In the dog-fight that ensued at treetop level, he held on against the numerically superior enemy for sometime. Eventually, his aircraft was hit and he was killed. Flying Officer Sekhon achieved his objective as the enemy aircraft fled without pressing home their intended attack on Srinagar town and airfield. The supreme gallantry, flying skill and determination displayed by Flying Officer Nirmal Jit Singh Sekhon earned him the PVC, posthumously. He was merely 26 years old when he laid down his life defending the motherland.

Second Lieutenant Arun Khetarpal

Second Lieutenant Arun Khetarpal was born in 1950 in Pune, Maharashtra. In 1967, he joined the National Defence Academy (NDA) and subsequently the Indian Military Academy (IMA), Dehradun. He was commissioned in the 17 Poona Horse in June 1971. Just six months later, the War began.

The 17 Poona Horse was ordered to establish a bridge-head across the Basantar River (a tributary of the Ravi River) in Shakargarh Sector. This was accomplished by the night of December 15. Noticing the alarming action of enemy armour at the bridgehead, the Indian troops called for tank support urgently. But the minefields had been cleared only partially by that time. At 0800 Hours on December 16, the enemy made a counter attack with an armour regiment, under the cover of smoke-screen. As the Indians were heavily outnumbered, the Commander of the B Squadron requested reinforcement. At that time Second Lieutenant Arun Khetarpal was positioned close to the Squadron with his troops in two tanks. He answered the call and moved out to face the enemy attack. On the way, his troops came under fire from enemy strong-points and recoilless gun nests, in the bridgehead zone. Khetarpal fiercely attacked these strong-points, over-ran defences and captured many enemy soldiers and recoilless guns at pistol point. During one of these attacks, the commander of his second tank was killed on the spot leaving him alone. But he continued the attack on the enemy strongholds single-handed, until all enemy positions were overwhelmed. He then raced to the 'B' Squadron position. By the time he reached there, the enemy tanks were on the retreat. He pursued and destroyed one of these tanks. The Commander could persuade him to fall back in line after great difficulty. The enemy soon reformed for a second attack. This time they chose the sector held by Arun Khetarpal and two other officers. A fierce tank battle followed. As many as ten enemy tanks were destroyed and of these Arun Khetarpal alone destroyed four. In the thick of the battle, one of the Indian tanks were hit and another suffered mechanical failure. The third tank i.e., Khetarpal's tank, also received a shot and burst into flames. However, Khetarpal refused to abandon his tank realising the useful role of his tank in preventing a breakthrough. He set about destroying the remaining enemy tanks. His tank received a second hit. Khetarpal offered solid resistance to the enemy tanks and prevented a breakthrough until he breathed his last. For most conspicuous gallantry in the face of the enemy, Second Lieutenant Arun Khetarpal was awarded the PVC, posthumously.

Major Hoshiar Singh

Major Hoshiar Singh was born in 1936, in a village in Rohtak, Haryana. He was commissioned in the Grenadiers in 1963. During the 1971 War, the 3 Grenadiers spearheaded the advance of 54 Infantry Division in Shakargarh Sector on the Western Front and made some quick gains during the first ten days of War. On December 15, the Battalion was assigned the task of establishing a bridgehead across the Basantar river. However, the enemy troops had laid deep minefields on both sides of the river and were in a strong position. The advancing Indian troops came under intense shelling and suffered heavily. But under the courageous leadership of Maj Hoshiar Singh, they continued the assault doggedly and captured village Jarpal in the Punjab province of Pakistan. In this battle, most of the enemy bunkers were cleared. The enemy's reaction to the loss of Jarpal was violent. On December 16, they launched sharp counter-attacks, two of them supported by armour, to dislodge the Grenadiers. Maj Hoshiar Singh was a true leader. Leading from the front, he provided inspiring leadership. Major Hoshiar Singh, unmindful of the enemy shelling and tank fire, went from trench to trench, encouraging his men to remain steadfast. Inspired by his courage and leadership, his Company repulsed all attacks, inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy. On December 17, the enemy mounted yet another attack in battalion strength with heavy artillery in support. Though wounded seriously in enemy shelling, Major Hoshiar Singh walked in the open to his trenches. The enemy attack was repulsed, and they beat a hasty retreat leaving behind 85 dead including the Commanding Officer. Major Hoshiar Singh was seriously wounded in the battle but he refused evacuation till the ceasefire. During this grim struggle he displayed exemplary courage and bravery to beat back repeated enemy attacks. He was decorated with the PVC on January 26, 1972. He was the sole PVC Awardee of the 1971 War to receive it in person.

Azadi Ka Digital Mahotsav

DigiDhan Mission – Towards Cashless Economy

India is currently in the cusp of a radical paradigm transition towards the adoption of technology in the creation of a digital economy. The rapid proliferation of mobile phones across the population, as well as the rise and spread of digital technologies enabled a focussed initiative by the government for establishing a robust, secure, pan-India digital payments ecosystem which could be accessed by all sections of the population. Hence, in June 2017, the Government launched the DigiDhan Mission for the promotion of digital payments across all sectors. Since then, there has been no looking back. The total digital transaction volume has seen an exponential growth from Rs 2,071 crore in financial year 2018 to Rs 5,551 crore in financial year 2021.

The digital payments ecosystem is an extension of the Digital India program and has the potential to transform India's economy by formalization of financial transactions. Financial inclusion has been a foremost challenge for India and DigiDhan Mission enabled access to formal financial services and benefits of e-commerce, especially for those who were excluded despite significant progress in bank-led payment system.

To commemorate the success of the DigiDhan Mission, the Ministry of Electronics and Information Technology (MeitY) recently organized the Digital Payment Utsav as part of the ongoing Azadi Ka Amrit Mahotsav (celebrating 75 years of India's Independence). The day celebrated the journey and rise of digital payments in India and brought together leaders from the Government, banking sector, fintech companies and startups. The event witnessed the unveiling of the DigiDhan logo, launch of an awareness campaign called Digital Payments Sandesh Yatra with digital payments anthem titled 'Chutki Baja ke' (cashless, touchless, paperless). Top Banks and Fintechs were awarded and recognized in various categories for their achievements in FY 2019-20 and FY 2020-21 towards the promotion of digital payments. During the event, MeitY also recognised the contribution of four payment system aggregators for onboarding street vendors under the PM SVANidhi Scheme-micro credit facility for street vendors.

DigiDhan Logo

The event saw the launch of innovative solutions like:

- Payments-on-the-Go: The City Union Bank launched Rupaya-on-the-Go. With this gadget, everyone can make payments a part of their fashion accessory, something they can 'wear' every day, and leave the house wallet-free. This innovative solution would redefine the contactless payments space by eliminating the need to carry a physical card and enabling instantaneous payments with a simple "Tap, pay, go" mechanism. RuPay On-the-Go is an interoperable, open-loop solution that customers can use at RuPay contactless-enabled PoS at retail outlets.

- Inclusive Credit for All: Credit cards represent the next big in fintech and contactless is truly the way forward. To drive it to the next level, India Post Payments Bank-Punjab National Bank, Kotak Bank, YES Bank, Indian Overseas Bank, ICICI Bank, Indian Bank, Bank of Maharashtra, and City Union Bank launched Contactless Credit cards on the RuPay network.
- Empowering Small Merchants: India has close to 1.5 crore retail stores/ Kiriyana stores. Union Bank announced an android-based SOFTPOS mobile app for point of sales, which will further the cause of digital payment adoption.

What is DigiDhan?

The Digital India programme is a flagship programme of the Government of India with a vision to transform India into a digitally empowered society and knowledge economy. "Faceless, Paperless, Cashless" is one of professed role of Digital India. Promotion of digital payments has been accorded highest priority by the Government of India. The vision is to provide facility of seamless digital payment to all citizens of India in a convenient, easy, affordable, quick and secured manner through Unified Payments Interface (UPI), Unstructured Supplementary Service Data (USSD), Aadhar Pay, Immediate Payment Service (IMPS) and Debit Cards.

Ministry of Electronics & Information Technology (MeitY) has taken several initiatives to promote digital payments and achieve the targets in a mission mode. Few of them are outlined below.

- Digital payment transactions target have been assigned to Central Ministries with high citizen touch points, Public Sector and Private Sector Banks to achieve the targets
- Training and workshops on digital payments awareness with several Ministries have been conducted and planned ; MoRTH, MoHFW, Ministry of Agriculture, MSME, Department of Post, Ministry of Power, Panchayati Raj, Ministry of Defence
- Promotional materials on publicity of digital payments is being shared with stakeholders to create awareness and sensitization
- Digital Payment dashboard has been created to track and monitor the progress of digital transactions achieved by Banks

- Cash back schemes for merchants
- Aadhaar merchant incentive schemes
- Referral bonus schemes for individuals

Tracking DigiDhan Growth

Furthering the mission of less-cash economy requires accurate reporting, monitoring and analysis of all digital transactions occurring in the country so that development of infrastructure can be done accordingly through deployment of Physical/Mobile/BHIM Aadhaar PoS devices. MeitY has developed 'DigiDhan Dashboard' that helps in tracking the growth of digital payment transactions in the country and provide inputs for effective planning of digital payment promotional activities. It provides bank-wise transactions' details as well as growth pattern of various modes of transactions like BHIM, IMPS, Cards etc., in graphical form.

The DigiDhan Dashboard is the only dashboard that provides a consolidated view of over 15 digital payment modes such as Unified Payment Interface (UPI), Immediate Payment Service (IMPS), Debit Card, Credit Card, etc., from RBI, National Payment Corporation of India (NPCI) and over 100 banks, Cities, State, and Ministries. The dashboard evaluates performance of banks based on KPIs (key performance indicators) and identifies the performance of the top and bottom performing banks. In addition, the dashboard provides state-wise distribution of digital payments transactions on a per capita basis and generates Business Intelligence driven data analysis.

DigiDhan Mitra Chatbot

The dashboard also hosts a DigiDhan Mitra Chatbot. Launched in 2019, the AI-based chatbot (designed and developed by NIC) enables a text and voice-based conversation with the user, mining the DigiDhan Portal. The chatbot proactively handles user queries in real-time and helps in faster processing of user queries, leading to saving of the resource time. The chatbot supports multiple languages and can respond to user queries through customised information in the form of text, bar graphs, and charts. It can also perform voice recognition in English and Hindi.

Key Drivers

This exponential growth of the digital payment sector is driven by multiple factors including convenience to pay, the ever-growing smart phone penetration, rise of non-banking payment institutions (payments bank, digital wallets, etc.), progressive regulatory policies and increasing consumer readiness to the digital payment platform. India, currently, has third largest internet user base in the world with 300 million users. 50 per cent of these users are connected to the internet through mobile phones only and they are playing a key role in the growth story of digital payments. The advent of next-generation payment systems like payment banks, digital wallets and BharatQR, is fueling digital payments furthermore. It is projected that digital payments in India will supersede cash by 2022, according to the IDC Financial Insights report titled The Future of Payments in India: More Spectacular Growth Ahead. Another key driver of digital payments is positive policy framework changes and government initiatives like the UPI, Aadhar linked electronic payments and improvement of the digital infrastructure.

Affordability

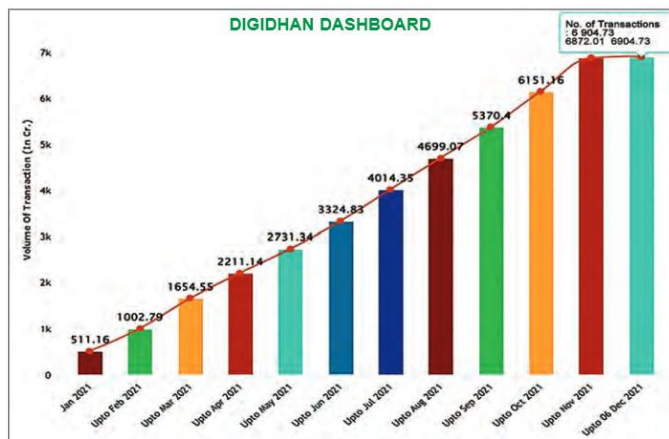

Entities involved in providing digital payment services incur costs, which are generally recovered from the merchant or the customer or are borne by one or more of the participants. While there are both advantages and disadvantages of customers bearing these charges, they should be reasonable and should not become a deterrent in the adoption of digital payments.

Considering this, Reserve Bank of India (RBI) on 8th December 2021 announced that it will issue a discussion paper that will be concentrated on the charges that customers pay on the various payments systems such as credit cards, debit cards, prepaid payment instruments (cards and wallets), UPI, etc. "The paper will also seek feedback on issues related to convenience fee, surcharging, etc., and the measures required to make digital transactions affordable to users and economically remunerative to the providers," the RBI release reads. The paper will be released in a month.

Comparison with Global Market

India is pegged to have the most evolved ecosystem of digital payments compared to 25 other countries which were surveyed by FIS, a US-based banking technology company. This included UK, China and Japan. The parameters that FIS used to measure the digital payments in these 25 countries include round-the-clock availability of the services, adoption, and immediacy of payments. FIS used the Faster Payments Innovation Index (FPII) rates of different payment system across these 25 countries on a scale of 1-5, with 5 being the highest rating. According to FPII, India's IMPS service was the only system to get a level 5 rating, leaving behind countries like UK, Singapore, Denmark, Switzerland, China, Japan, and others. This certainly puts India's digital payments story on an exciting track.

INDIA-RUSSIA PARTNERSHIP ...

from buying weapons from Russia, North Korea, and Iran.

Indian Foreign Secretary Shringla said that the two countries did not discuss CAATSA at all, emphasizing that the S-400 'Triumph' is a legacy contract from 2018. Supplies of the first column of the air missile defense system have begun this month, and the rest of four under the $5.43 billion contract will continue to happen until 2023.

"I do not think the military-technical cooperation for the next decade that has been signed is going to change the India-Russia defence relationship trajectory fundamentally. I think this is largely an attempt to set the course for the next decade; to see what are the priority areas in which the two countries can collaborate and move from "buyer-seller" to "co-production and co-developer" - something India has been prioritising in its defence engagements," Professor Harsh V. Pant, Director of Strategic Studies Programme at the New Delhi-based think tank Observer Research Foundation noted.

India's former ambassador to Russia Bala Venkatesh Varma had pointed out ahead of the Summit that India-Russia bilateral defence contracts were only about US$ 2-3 Billion per year in 2018, which has scaled up to nearly US$ 9-10 billion per annum now.

Professor Pant reckoned that India's military diversification, at the same time, will also continue with the other countries coming into India's defence policy matrix, like the U.S., Western European countries like France, or even Israel.

Russia has recently begun manufacturing 1135.6 frigates for the Indian Navy at the Yantar shipyard in Kaliningrad. Under the contract, two frigates will be manufactured in Russia while Goa Shipyard Ltd in India will manufacture two others. India will also buy an additional Su 30-MKI fighter jet as well as additional MiG 29s and 400 more T-90 tanks. Foreign Secretary Harsh Vardhan Shringla has also informed that the two countries will soon sign the reciprocal military logistics support agreement (RELOS), which will provide access to each other's military facilities like ports, bases, and military installations.

Trade and Investment

One of the critical pillars of the old Indo-Soviet friendship was strong commercial ties. The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (USSR) used to be India's largest trading partner. In comparison, the current expansion of the Indian economy is based on Asian markets and the West.

Enhancing bilateral trade and investments figured prominently during the talks between Indian Prime Minister Modi and Russian President Putin. Both the leaders have noticed an encouraging growth trend in bilateral trade compared to last year when there was a downturn due to the COVID pandemic. Aside from the traditional strengths of India-Russia relations: defence, nuclear, space, and energy, the two countries have been making efforts to enlarge the scope of relations. Both countries reiterated their pledge to increase bilateral trade by $30 billion and $50 billion in investment by 2025. To achieve the goal, the two "Special and Privileged Strategic Partners" are considering significant projects in the energy sector, long-term arrangements concerning coking coal and fertilizers.

The role of connectivity through the International North-South Transport Corridor (INSTC) and the proposed Chennai-Vladivostok Eastern Maritime Corridor also figured in the discussions. "Trade and connectivity are linked. If trade turnover is limited, large connectivity projects may be of limited value. At the same time, connectivity can also lead to more trade. To a large extent, INSTC has not really taken off because India-Russia trade was supposed to provide volumes, which has not happened. It is good that now Chabahar port built by India in Iran has been added within the INSTC framework. The Vladivostok-Chennai Maritime Corridor has both commercial and geopolitical dimensions. It can provide opportunities for India to invest in Russia's Far East. This can be linked with India's Indo-Pacific strategy as well. India can import crude and LNG from Russia through this route," Prof Gulshan Sachdeva, Coordinator, Jean Monnet Centre of Excellence; and Chairperson, Centre for European Studies, School of International Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University reckoned.

Assessing India's Economic Engagements in Russia's Far East Region

Russia and India are looking forward to exploring the opportunities of enhancing economic engagement in the Far East through investments, trade, and commerce. New Delhi seeks to tap the geo-economic opportunity in Russia's new Far East region. India needs to look beyond oil and gas and explore new opportunities in farming, mineral exploration, manufacturing, and shipping. In the meantime, the Russian Far East can also become a manufacturing base for Indian exporters seeking to tap the markets of North-east Asia. Against this backdrop, New Delhi announced to grant $ 1 billion line of credit to Russia in the Eastern Economic Forum to attract and provide incentives to the Indian business community to invest in the Far East Region in 2019. "India needs to strengthen the potentials of business to business (B2B) cooperation to explore the opportunities in energy, forestry, timber, healthcare, agriculture and food processing, ceramics, tourism, and infrastructure," Dr. Sandeep Tripathi, Founder & President of the Forum for Global Studies, suggested.

Dr. Tripathi said that the Russian Far East Region is a win-win situation for the time-tested partners because Moscow's resource-surplus-based economy and India's resource-deficit economy can be fertile ground for both countries. For instance, Moscow can explore Indian immigration. Similarly, New Delhi may emerge as a growing market for Russian exports. In this context, the Chennai-Vladivostok sea route, which covers a distance of approximately 5,600 nautical miles, or about 10,300 km, has been proposed. This link would facilitate cargo transfers between the two eastern ports of the two countries in 24 days compared to the 40 days that it now takes for ships that sail via Europe.

The Chennai-Vladivostok shipping route would become the backbone of the Indo-Pacific maritime link between India and the Far East as a whole. In addition, the geopolitical and security factors also play a crucial role behind India's orientation towards Russia's most untapped Far East Region. "China's presence as an investment source and the source of mass labour migration have influenced deeply the geopolitics of the Russian Far East and reach out to India. New Delhi, however, looks at Russia's Far East Region beyond pure economics," Dr Tripathi reckoned.

Energy Co-operation

The two countries have reaffirmed their commitment to increasing Russian crude oil production under long-term contracts at preferential prices, and increasing Liquid Natural Gas imports to India with the possible use of the Northern Sea Route for energy supplies. Northern Sea Route runs from the Barents Sea, near Russia's border with Norway, to the Bering Strait between Siberia and Alaska. It cuts distance between Asia and Europe by almost 40% compared to traditional maritime routes via Suez Canal. There is extensive cooperation between India and Russia on energy, including Indian companies' stakes in Russian upstream projects Sakhalin 1, Vankorneft, and Taas-Yuryakh. "The parties also agreed to consider prospects for expanding cooperation on hydro and thermal energy, energy efficiency, and the use of renewable energy sources," a Kremlin report about the Summit reads.

Since 2016, Indian companies (ONGC Videsh Ltd., Oil India Limited, Indian Oil Corporation and Bharat Petroresources) have been holding a 49.9% stake in

INDIA-RUSSIA PARTNERSHIP ...

Vankorneft Subsidiary. The Consortium of Indian companies (Oil India Limited, Indian Oil Corporation & Bharat Petroresources) also owns a 29.9% stake in Taas-Yuryakh Neftegazodo-bycha, which holds licenses for the Central Block of the Srednebotuobinskoye field and the Kurungsky license area (the other shareholders are Rosneft and British Petroleum). Since 2001, ONGC Videsh Ltd. has been a participant in the Sakhalin-1 project (the other shareholders are Rosneft, ExxonMobil, and Japanese Sodeco). In 2020, the project produced 124 lakh tons of oil and condensate, and supplied more than 2.4 billion cubic meters of gas to consumers. Meanwhile, Russia's biggest oil firm Rosneft owns a stake (49.13%) in the Indian company Nayara Energy, which has the second-largest refinery in the country in Vadinar with a throughput of 200 lakh tons per year. The two countries have agreed to further expand cooperation in this sector by developing gas infrastructure and distribution projects, the use of natural gas in transport, and emerging fuels, including hydrogen.

Cooperation in Space and Nuclear Energy

Cooperation in space and civil nuclear energy, as well as greater collaboration in cyber-security, also figured during the official discussions in the Summit. Both sides expressed concern over the possibility of an arms race in outer space and outer space turning into an arena for military confrontation.

They reaffirmed commitment to take efforts to prevent an arms race in outer space and its weaponization. Also, the two countries agreed to study the prospects of the development of mutually beneficial cooperation in the development of launch vehicles and use of outer space for peaceful purposes, including planetary exploration.

Gaganyaan program is India's first human-crewed space flight mission. A contract was signed between the Indian Space Research Organisation (ISRO) and Roscosmos' subsidiary Glav-cosmos in June 2019 to train Indians who will be sent to space for seven days in 2023 aboard Gaganyaan. Training of the four Indian personnel began in February 2020 in Russia and was completed in March 2021. This crew capsule will be launched on India's heavy rocket Geosynchronous Launch Vehicle (GSLV). The two nations have also agreed to strengthen cooperation within the U.N. Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space (UN COPUOS), including the issues of the long-term sustainability of outer space activities.

On civil nuclear cooperation, the two countries noted the significant progress achieved in constructing the remaining nuclear power plant units at Kudankulam. India will also allot a second site for building nuclear reactors with the cooperation of Russia. Presently, India has 22 operational nuclear reactors with about 6,780 MW installed capacity for power generation. There are ten nuclear power reactors with 8000 MW capacity under construction.

Afghanistan and Counter-terrorism

President Putin and Prime Minister Modi exchanged views on regional and international issues of common interest. According to Indian Foreign Secretary Harsh Vardhan Shringla, the two leaders have decided to continue close consultation and coordination on the situation in Afghanistan, for a peaceful, secure and stable Afghanistan with an inclusive government that represents all sections of the society. "Both sides were also very clear that Afghanistan territory should not be used for sheltering training or planning, financing any acts of terrorism including ISIS, Al Qaeda, LeT etc. There were, of course, concerns over the issue of drugs and other concerns that could emanate from Afghanistan. It was felt that humanitarian assistance to the people of Afghanistan was important," Shringla said.

To address the threat of chemical and biological terrorism, both sides emphasized the need to launch multilateral negotiations on an international convention to suppress acts of chemical and biological terrorism at the Conference on Disarmament. The two countries also discussed the ongoing military standoff between India and China in the eastern Ladakh region as well as the situation in Ukraine, among others.

Earlier this year, Russia had unveiled its National Security Strategy, which explicitly mentioned that expanding strategic cooperation with India and China remained Moscow's foreign policy priorities. Russia expressed its strong support for India's membership of the Nuclear Suppliers Group.

Inaugural 2+2 Summit

India and Russia have started the 2+2 defence and foreign ministries level dialogue, coinciding with the Annual Summit on 6th December 2021. With this, India has a 2+2 format dialogue mechanism on strategic and defence-related issues with four of its key strategic partners — Russia, Australia, the U.S., and Japan.

During the inaugural dialogue, India made it clear to Russia how it views the Indo-Pacific strategy and how it aligns with Moscow's vision of a non-aligned Asia Pacific. Indian Foreign Minister Subrahmanyam Jaishankar said that maritime security and safety are another area of shared concern. "We both have a common interest in ASEAN centrality and ASEAN-driven platforms," Jaishankar said. Russian Foreign Minister Sergei Lavrov conveyed Russia's "serious concerns" about activities taking place in the Asia-Pacific Region. "We expressed our concern about the activities taking place in this region under the slogan of Indo-Pacific strategies where we see non-inclusive blocs like AUKUS," Lavrov said.

"The 2+2 foreign and defence ministerial dialogue fuels a new impetus to the institutional mechanism of 'Special and Privileged Strategic Partnership' between New Delhi and Moscow. This newly established institutional mechanism 2+2 talk will dilute the existing hurdles and hedges between Russia and India that evolved under the new geopolitical clout, i.e. India's alignment with the QUAD and Moscow's closer ties with Beijing. In addition, this dialogue reiterates that our defence ties are more than the speculative assumptions that evolved over the years," Dr. Sandeep Tripathi assessed.

Experts in international relations agreed that for Russia, it is very important that India remains one of its most important defence buyers while working on expanding commercial ties to deepen the relationship like it has with China. Russia and China have a bilateral trade of over $40 billion, while India-Russia bilateral trade has only hovered around $10 billion.

"For India, it is most important that Russia engages with India and does not really abandon its relationship with India in favour of China. So, for both countries it is important that the defence relationship is embedded in the larger foreign policy assessment where the two countries need each other for maintaining their own strategic autonomies," Professor Harsh V. Pant of Observer Research Foundation emphasized.

rats to election victory in late September, positioning himself as the continuity candidate because he played a key role in the Merkel government as vice-chancellor. ■ More countries join US-led diplomatic boycott of 2022 Beijing Winter Olympics

The United Kingdom, Canada and Australia have joined the US-led diplomatic boycott of the 2022 Winter Olympics in Beijing over concerns about human rights in China. These announcements came after the White House confirmed diplomatic boycotts of the Winter Olympics to protest Chinese human rights abuses. US President Joe Biden's administration cited what the US calls genocide against minority Muslims in China's Xinjiang region. New Zealand has also confirmed it will not send officials to Beijing mostly because of the coronavirus pandemic, but it also voiced concern over human rights issues in China. Although diplomats from these countries will not be visiting China for the games, athletes from those countries will still compete in the Games that will be held between 4th and 20th February 2022. International Olympic Committee (IOC) Chief Thomas Bach has said the presence of government officials is a political decision for each government so the principle of IOC neutrality applies. Meanwhile, China has warned that a US diplomatic boycott of the Beijing Winter Olympics could harm the dialogue and co-operation between the two countries in important areas and called for politics to be kept out of sports. The Chinese mission to the United Nations has called the US move a reflection of "its mentality of the Cold War."
